

JOB/PERSONALITY

Results Competency Test

You consider customer-oriented & analytical

You got the highest score on the competencies customer-oriented and analytical. Customer-oriented refers to being representative, service-oriented, making contact easily, and being able to sell products or services. Analytical refers to being information-savvy. You excel at analysing and structuring data, are curious and are able to understand how things work. A work environment that demands a customer focus and analytical skills suits your well. Think of jobs such as consultant, online marketer or lawyer.

Score per competency

Customer-oriented: 7

Collaborative: 5

Self-reliant: 3

Analytical: 6

Driven: 3

Creative: 6

And now?

You can use the results of this test when applying for a job. For instance, show your skills on your LinkedIn profile or curriculum vitae (CV). In doing so, you show which in-demand competencies of the future describe you best. But the result of this competency test can also be used to consider a career switch or when choosing a profession. Soft skills are skills that are appreciated in many different jobs.

Find the job you love

What kind of work do you enjoy doing? Which jobs match your interests? Take the career test and find the job you love.

Discover your personality

Would you like to know what your scores are on the main dimensions of personality? Take the free Big Five Personality Test and discover your personality profile. With suitable (work) environment and tips!